Fuehrer Follows Troops and Planes Into Conquered Nation in Triumph; Nazi Swastika Flies Everywhere and 'Heil Hitler' Rings Out

BULLETIN

VIENNA—(AP)—About 1,000 German infantrymen, landed from planes, began marching into Vienna at 5:06 p. m. (11:06 a. m. EST) today.

(By Associated Press)

VIENNA—Adolf Hitler returned in triumph to his native Austria today while the Austrian nation with mixed feelings began to learn what it means to be under Nazi control.

The fuehrer of Germany made his entry into Linz at 4:13 p. m. (10:13 EST), a few hours behind his troops and airplanes.

All the villages of upper Austria through which he passed turned out as the Austrian-born leader of Nazidom moved toward Vienna.

Scores of German bombers and other military planes brought German soldiers into the suburbs of Vienna

They remained there awaiting the fuehrer's triumphal entry into the capital of the state which has come under his power expected tonight

At Reid, near the frontier, thousands of peasants and towns people many weeping for joy, gathered to salute the Reichsfuehrer, who has become also Fuehrer for many Austrians

With Hitler were Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, Erhard Milch, German undersecretary for air, and other high German officials.

Austrians Greet Nazis.

Columns of German soldiers were swinging through Austria, as the Nazism of Hitler dominated the nation.

At Salzburg Innsbruck, Kufstein and Linz, where German soldiers arrived early in the day Austrian military joined the ranks of the invaders, greeting them cordially

Since yesterday's retirement of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg under threats from Hitler German troops had swarmed over all of the nation, and today for the first time since the World war German troops today stood at Italy's frontier, at the historic Brenner Pass, and made friendly contact with Italian border guards

Five truckloads of German infantry under a lieutenant-colonel, part of the legions marching into Austria to make sure Reichsfuehrer Hitler's domination, arrived at the strategic Alpine portal

In Rome it became apparent Hitler had given Premier Mussolini advance information that he was sending German troops into Austria

The commander of the German detachment at Brenner Pass immediately called on the Italian commander of the frontier garrison.

Their meeting took place near the barrier which bears the Latin legend: "Frontier stone between Italy and Austria, consecrated by the treaty of St. Germaine, Sept. 10, 1919"

The German, speaking in Italian, said

"I offer the salute of the German nation, and express its admiration to your chief"

The Italian commander thanked him and paid a tribute to Hitler.

The meeting showed how Europe had moved since 1934, when Mussolini rushed his divisions to the Brenner Pass as a gesture to restrain Germany at the time of the Nazi putsch of July 25

In ancient times the Brenner Pass was the avenue for three Teuton invasions of the Italian peninsula

An emissary of der fuehrer, it was learned, arrived in Rome yesterday by airplane bringing a personal letter to Mussolini before the troops marched.

Under the Rome-Berlin axis, Hitler and Mussolini have agreed

BULLETIN

In a session described as "harmonious," Mansfield and Madison township officials agreed at noon today to accept their relief burdens Tuesday as a single unit and to continue, temporarily at least, the relief office at 28 Orange street, under Director Earl A. Nist. While finances were discussed, no action was taken on a program for providing money to pay relief bills.

City, county and Madison township officials met at the courthouse shortly before noon today in a session which was expected to produce a solution to the relief problem which the county will turn back to its sub-divisions next Tuesday.

In a letter submitted to the officials at the meeting, County Prosecutor Glenn W Marriott outlined the procedure the city and township can follow in setting up a relief administration He declined to reveal contents of the letter before the session

While the city, county and township are debating the problem, relief activities will be continued as usual at the Orange street headquarters, Relief Director Earl A. Nist said.

Continue Relief Activities.

"The activities will be continued without interruption at the relief office until the new program is finally determined," Nist said.

Nist pointed out today that a ray of hope has appeared on the relief horizon and expenditures from now are expected to show a decline monthly.

While there is little indication of a pick-up in employment, Nist said fewer requests for direct re-

Stock Exchange Orders Public Report on Brokerage Funds.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Acting swiftly after the failure and indictment of its former president, the New York stock exchange put into effect today a new rule requiring exchange brokerage firms to make available a statement of financial condition to any customer upon request.

The ruling, figuratively compelling brokerage houses to keep their asset ledgers "in their front windows," applied to all member firms.

It was adopted as state, local and federal investigations were pressed into the tangled finances of Richard Whitney. The failure of his brokerage firm four days ago gave Wall Street its biggest scandal in years.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Gov Martin L Davey returned today to his Columbus office after testifying he "possibly" suggested that Lee Bradley, erstwhile senate investigating committee witness, use political influence as a Davey Tree Expert company salesman.

The governor also asserted, as a witness at a preliminary hearing on a perjury charge he brought against Bradley, that he would have thrown the salesman "out on his neck" if he had proposed a division of commissions on state business.

The hearing, held to determine whether the accused Clevelander should be bound to the grand jury, was recessed yesterday until next Wednesday Judge Burt W Griffin, municipal court chief justice, explained that the governor faced a Tuesday deadline to act on legislative measures.

Marvin C. Harrison, Bradley's counsel, quoted in cross-examination from a letter purportedly from Governor Davey to Bradley, dated Oct. 7, 1932, which said in part: "I wonder if you could give me the name and address of the

FAVOR REPEAL

Senate Bloc to Seek Complete Elimination of Profit Tax.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senate foes of the business levies in the administration's tax revision bill, heartened by the house's stand against a surtax on closely-held corporations, indicated today they would try to eliminate the undistributed profits tax.

Senator Candenberg (R-Mich.) one of this group, grumbled goodnaturedly that "the house robbed us of the pleasure" of knocking out the surtax on closely-held corporations.

He predicted the undistributed profits tax might be taken from the bill despite the administration's endorsement of its principle.

Gallant Osa to Carry On Jungle Films Alone--She's Ready for New Expedition

Life for Widow of Famed Explorer One of Deep Contrasts.

By JANE WILLIAMS

Gallant little Osa Johnson, a touch of sadness behind her merry dark eyes, can give you more contrasts in half an hour than you'll find in ordinary lives.

Because this former Chanute, Kan., girl who at 16 was swept off her size three feet by a tall, blond Viking who had sailed with Jack London on "The Snark," has lived a life in which flashes of civilization were blended against a tapestry of dark savagery. . . .

Because this diminutive woman who stands a fraction under five feet and weighs 106 pounds, wears Milgrim furs and frocks on brief interludes between safaris into the jungles and volcanic wastes of Africa and Borneo. . . .

Because she never started out in the morning, on the trail of a bull elephant or big hippo, without the same kind of makeup that she wears when making "personal appearances"; and because at night returning to camp, dead tired, and foot sore, she still was woman enough to want to make Hollandaise sauce for her husband's tinned asparagus.

Martin Johnson, the Scandanavian Viking who was born in Independence Kas., instilled his own world-wide vagabondage into the spirit of the mate who lived with him for 27 years, of which 25 were spent in jungles with savages for friends On one exploration trip they were gone

BERLIN—(INS)—The German government today rejected as "inadmissable" the French and British protest over German occupation of Austria.

LONDON—(INS)—The rueful conclusion that nothing can be done to save Austria from Nazi domination was reached at a special session of the British cabinet today

In an official announcement however the government made clear its apprehension over the situation

"Action of the German government" the statement said, "is found to have a most disturbing effect upon Anglo-German relations"

Prepared for immediate transmission to Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, who previously received from Brit-

Austria's Neighbor Nations Put Up Strong Frontier Guard

VIENNA—(INS)—Absolute master of his native Austria, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler tightened his grip of steel today as the armies of five neighboring nations encircled the borders of the "new reich" with a ring of bayonets

Crack troops of Italy, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Hungary massed at the frontiers north, east and south while in the west grim-visaged French soldiers manned the border emplacements

The whole 32,000 square miles of long-independent Austria, with its 7,200,000 population transformed overnight into subjects of the Nazi regime, went under domination of the swastika

Heinrich Himmler, chieftain of the dreaded Gestapo, the Nazi secret police, arrived in Vienna to lead a sweeping purge of dissident elements while Hitler himself moved down to Munich from Berlin to keep in close touch with the situation

Throughout the early hours of the morning, large forces of German troops—infantry cavalry and the highly mechanized and motorized units which are Hitler's pride poured across the border into

Give Food Mixer Care Regularly For Service

If you have a choice food mixer that you treasure highly, don't impair its efficiency by giving it too heavy work to do.

Don't risk or expose your porcelain or glass bowl to any sudden change in temperature. Don't immerse the motor casing in water, but use a damp cloth to clean it. Remember to use a rubber scraper to mix down the batters, as ordinary spoons can get caught in the beaters and do damage.

As for oil, food mixers should be oiled sparingly and frequently, with a good grade of graphite oil, and once every ten or twelve months the gears can be packed with a heavy grease. As recommended by the manufacturers—no one else.

At the latest, a costume dance, at Cambridge, Mass., we find John Roosevelt, youngest son of the president, with his fiancee, Anne Lindsay Clark of Boston. Married For Home, Now Regrets It

By VIRGINIA LEE

The most tragic letter in my mail today is from a woman who married not loving her husband. She married him because her parents were going to part and put the children into an orphanage. This man asked her to marry him so she did—for a home.

Since their marriage, five years ago, she has worked in a factory, as her husband never has had steady work. She says her husband is not very good to her except on pay days, when she gives him some money.

At this factory where she works also works a young man, and he, not knowing she was married, asked her for a date, which she accepted. They went out together a number of times until he heard she was a married woman, when he naturally stopped asking her to go with him.

Recently he married a girl he used to go with a long time ago. He said he might as well be married as this woman he loves is. BROKEN HEARTED, which is the signature on the letter, says she never knew before what love was. She is so much in love she is absolutely heart broken, and is losing weight. The doctor says her heart is not strong, and she wants me to publish her letter so that the man she loves may see it and know how she feels toward him.

Too bad this young man didn't wait awhile before he married to see if you couldn't get free to marry him. I don't like to suggest divorce, and maybe you do not believe in it either. It seems to me however, that it would be better for your husband not to have you to supply him with money. Wouldn't he do better if he didn't have your money to depend upon? I've known men who were perfectly willing to let their wives support them if she would do it, and your husband is not too old or weak to take care of himself, is he?

Would you be better or worse off to leave your husband and only have yourself to take care of? Couldn't you live a less worrisome life by yourself, having your good times with women friends?

You have to count the man you love out of your life, as he has married. If he really loved you it seemed a foolish thing to do, but it is done, and he should try to make his wife happy. I am sorry about your illness, but surmise much of it is caused by your unhappy state of mind.

Good Posture Asset To Any Beauty

By JULIET SHELBY
(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

ONE OF THE things child specialists insist that parents teach their children is good posture. They say that good posture once learned will never be forgotten. Its importance has reached beyond the bounds of beauty. Apparently, standing and walking correctly through life can be the difference between health and sickness.

Besides making you graceful lithe and compact looking, it really takes years off your age by keeping you in the best of condition. The doctors say that poor posture pushes the internal organs out of position, it causes improper breathing, poor circulation and bad digestion. But fortunately it's never too late to rectify mistakes of carriage.

So if you want to walk like a queen and feel like a million, try these exercises that will get you out of the slumps. Take a tip from the natives of the tropics. Walk around your room about half an hour every day with a book balanced on your head. This wil be a hard balancing act at first, but it gets easier all the time.

Here's one that is a little harder, but it certainly takes the kinks out of your spine: Sit on the floor, with your feet apart, and your knees bent. Put your hands on your knees and lean your head and shoulders forward, bending your back. Then sit up straight, pulling from your hands and knees. Throw out your chest and straighten your shoulders. Lift your head and pull it back at the same time. Do this about six times.

Down to Floor Again.

Try another standing one next: Stand with your feet apart, head up, shoulders straight, with your arms raised but not held rigidly. Keeping your body in this position turn half way to the right, bending both knees slightly, then turn to the left and repeat. Do this exercise slowly and do it ten times.

Down to the floor again: Kneel with your head up, and your hands clasped behind your body. Then bend slowly forward, keeping your head up and your back flat until you are sitting on your heels. Keeping your head down, hump your back, pull in your stomach, and slowly raise your body. This is really not too tiring, and it can be done about 12 times.

These four routines will give you a swell start on the road to regal carriage. You'll be getting in the habit of having good posture without knowing it. But it will be a big help if you'll be a little conscious of it during the day, and walk around with your body erect, and when you are working or reading don't droop over your task. Sit up, it's easier on other people's eyes as well as yours.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Well!" Mary said explosively when the suave hotel manager had bowed himself out of our suite. "If that isn't the darndest—"

She stopped as abruptly as if someone had pricked her with a stiletto, and her eyes were ludicrous in their chagrin. I knew as well as if she had finished her sentence that the concluding words would have been "cock and bull story I ever heard."

But palpably she had taken a second thought, and decided that she must betray no suspicion of her uncle such as apparent disbelief of the manager's story would spell. And the result of her belated caution was a decidedly lame repetition of her exclamation, with an ending which I was sure reflected no whit of her real sentiments.

Mary Angry.

"They ought to fire that new night operator," she stormed, "making a mistake like that. He couldn't have given any attention to the name. 'Glavan' doesn't much like Graham, especially with the short 'a' that it ought to have. The very idea of his letting you in for an experience like that, a drunken woman calling up and insisting on speaking to her husband."

"Oh! I can't blame the man, Mary," I said in a valiant but feeble attempt to keep up my end of the colloquy. "I think it was a most natural mistake to make."

"You'll find the hotel will blame him plenty and then some," she said shrewdly. "Hotel employes aren't paid for making mistakes. 'See nothing, hear nothing, say nothing,' but keep your brain cells moving every second. That's where they go the three little monkeys at least two better."

I managed a perfunctory laugh at her nonsense, although I never felt less like mirth, and I knew that Mary's keen young eyes were scanning my face.

"You're all in," she said abruptly, "and I don't wonder, after the mixup you've just been in. Don't you think you'd better call it a day and climb into the other twin bed next to me? Come on, now. I'll even sing you to sleep if you will. Isn't that a sporting offer, Miss Whitlock?"

Bed For Madge.

"Yes, indeed," the nurse said absently, and I was irritatedly conscious that she also was watching me with solicitude. Then her tone changed to brisk competence.

"Bed at once," she said authoritatively. "That's my prescription. Just let me be your maid. I assure you I make a good one. Mrs. Veritzen would you mind drawing a tub of warm water?"

"If you can get it at this hour," Mary said skeptically, but a minute later announced triumphantly, "It's boiling!"

"Don't make it too hot!" Miss Whitlock cautioned.

"I'll promise not to scald her," Mary retorted, and I found the bath tempered just right when Miss Whitlock put me into it after undressing me as if I were a baby.

The hot bath soothed frayed nerves and fatigued muscles, and, relaxed, I luxuriated in it until Miss Whitlock, forbidding a shower afterward, took me out, gave me a quick rubdown and put me into night atire.

"I feel about two years old," I told her as she tucked me into my bed.

Gives Her Sedative.

"I'd rather it were two months," she laughed, and went away, coming back with a small glass half filled with a cloudy liquid.

"You can give them anything, even castor oil at two months, without question," she explained, and I took the glass obediently.

"I am yours to command," I said, and quaffed the salty contents of the glass.

"Then I command that you go to sleep," she said, as Mary, who had disrobed with lightning speed, slid into the other bed.

"If I know that sedative, and I think I do," she said, "she'll be asleep 'shoost as soon leetle sheep he vag his tail'."

I laughed with Miss Whitlock at the fidelity of her imitation of Katie, and after a few minutes fulfilled her prophecy and even my sick wonder over my husband banished for the time.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, March 13.

Sunday's horoscope is a rather difficult and confusing one, with much calling for good judgment, wise counsel and well-considered action. It stresses financial hazards, although there may be some other loss or bereavement that may cause much anxiety. There may be sudden changes and high expenditures involved.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a difficult year, with much financial jeopardy or enforced expenditures in meeting disturbed or devastating situations. There may be sudden disruption, with anxiety or sorrow regarding an elderly person. Be wary of strangers and prudent in managing all the affairs, particularly in money matters.

A child born on this day may be restless and probably erratic, although fond of making an attractive front and putting its best foot forward. It may have decided proclivities for shining socially, although its financial extravagance and reverses may not justify such indulgence.

For Monday, March 14.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a particularly lively and probably strenuous day, with much concerning the launching of new and very important projects. These may be started with the solid indorsement and co-operation of big business interests. It is a time for cashing in on sound propositions of a bold or constructive character.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of high achievement in launching cherished projects of a meritorious and practical nature, with support assured from interested capital or big business.

A child born on this day may have fine creative ability and may be practical and aggressive as well, attracting solid support of large interests by its determination, sound projects and skill.

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint.

Pork Chops
Potatoes and Cabbage With Cheese Sauce
Apple-Celery Salad
Rice Pudding With Dates Tea

I like this combination of potatoes and cabbage, and the cheese gives the bland tasting vegetables a nice flavor. Ordinary fresh bottled milk may, of course, be used in place of the evaporated, and reversing the matter, you can use evaporated milk, diluted with equal parts of water for the rice pudding if you wish. I have done so with good results.

Today's Recipes.

POTATOES AND CABBAGE WITH CHEESE SAUCE — One pint water, two teaspoons salt, three medium potatoes (three cups diced), one quart chopped cabbage, one cup irradiated evaporated milk, one-fourth pound cheese (one cup). Bring water to boil. Add salt, potatoes and cabbage and boil uncovered until potatoes are tender, about 15 minutes. Most of the water should be evaporated. Scald milk. Add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Pour cheese sauce over vegetables and serve at once. The amount serves six.

RICE PUDDING — Heat three cups of milk or one and one-half cups evaporated milk and the same amount of water in double boiler. Add one-third cup rice which has been washed and drained. Let cook until rice is tender, then beat one egg in mixing bowl or in bowl in which you plan to serve the pudding, add one-third cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, and pour some of the hot mixture over it, mix well, then return all to double boiler and add a cup of dates seeded and cut into pieces. Cook for five minutes more, then pour out and cool. Can be served plain or with cream.

How to Cook Macaroni.

The preparation and serving of macaroni products can be varied in so many ways that if you served them every day you could have a new recipe to follow for many days.

It is always best to follow carefully tested recipes, but there are a few general hints about the use of macaroni products that you will find helpful.

Cook macaroni products in plenty of boiling salted water; allow a tablespoon of salt to each three quarts of water used. Cook the macaroni just until it is tender, do not overcook.

A cup or two of macaroni, spaghetti, or egg noodles added to soups of all kind will give them body and add to their nutritive value.

Try adding cooked macaroni products to your meat loaf. The results will be surprising in added food value, tastiness and ready acceptance by young and old.

RAGOUT OF BEEF — Two pounds beef shank or neck, four tablespoons flour, two tablespoons lard or beef suet, salt and pepper, one small bay leaf, one cup rice, three cups tomatoes, one small onion, minced; two tablespoons chopped green pepper. Have beef shank or neck cut into pieces, one to one and one-half inches in size. Dredge with flour and brown in hot lard or beef suet which has been fried out. Season with salt and pepper and bay leaf. Cover with hot water and cook slowly for one hour. Cook rice in boiling salted water until ilt is done. Line salted water until it is done. Line which is seasoned with onion and green pepper. Fill the center with partially cooked meat. Pour meat stock and tomatoes over all and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the meat is done, about one hour longer.

A little furniture polish added to the water when washing windows gives them an excellent shine.

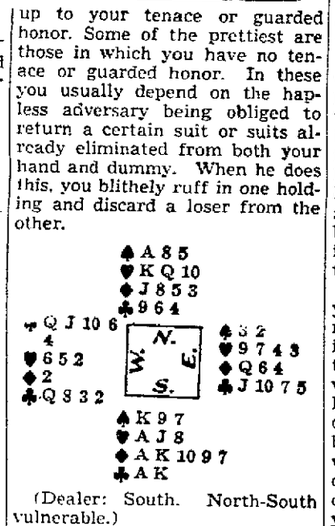
Serve slices of lemon and parsley with fish. Lemon improves the flavor of fish and parsley makes the plate more attractive.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

RUFF AND DISCARD

Not all lead-throwing end-plays compel a defender to lead up to your tenace or guarded honor. Some of the prettiest are those in which you have no tenace or guarded honor. In these you usually depend on the hapless adversary being obliged to return a certain suit or suits already eliminated from both your hand and dummy. When he does this, you blithely ruff in one holding and discard a loser from the other.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

The spade Q was West's opening lead here against South's contract of 6-Diamonds. After winning with the spade K, the declarer cashed the diamonds A and K, so that he was bound to lose one trick in trumps when the Q failed to fall.

With no possible spot to toss the losing spade, South decided to try to get a line on the distribution of the other suits, so he cashed the clubs A and K, and then entered dummy with the heart Q. A club was now ruffed and the two hearts and spade A cashed.

Declarer's hopes were realized, for when he now put East in with the diamond Q, the latter had nothing to return but the heart 9 or the club J, either of which gave South a chance to discard in one hand and ruff in the other. He was therefore able to make his contract with the loss of only a trick in the trump suit.

Monday's Problem:

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

How should South play for 3-No Trump after the lead of the heart 4?

A Farmer's Diary

MARCH 12

I HOPE I shall never grow too old to enjoy exploring new trails. Sometimes, of course, it gets me into trouble, or the result is very unexpected. For instance, my family will not allow me to forget the time I drove into a suburban allotment, endeavoring to find my way across to a familiar, through road, and after entering by three different ways, each time re-emerged at precisely where I had started.

Another time I loaded my car with guests who wanted to see the beautiful estate of a local manufacturer. I tried a cross-cut, and came around a turn to find the road's end and a high board fence, with the warning in red paint—KEEP OUT—CROSS BULL!

But curves are interesting. If you have not tried it, make a game of finding the most beautiful, the most humorous, the most unique sights when you take your next drive. On one recent trip I remember Sharp, black pine tops a rosy sky—a tiny log house at the foot of a steep, wooded hill—a graceful, leaning sycamore above a green pool—the swirl of pigeons around a barn eaves—a bald-headed fat man, chasing his hat.

I made a western trip once, across the desert in a Model T Ford. The roads are long in the desert. The one I was on seemed to have no turning, but went flatly, monotonously on, across miles of plain. When I came within sight of trees again, I was very glad. But the other side of the desert—the priceless memory of the Rockies—was worth the trip.

So let's take a look at the road map and make some summer plans. Ohio is a wonderful state for varieties of natural beauty. Let's go—and be certain of new charm and color, just around the turn.

ain a sharp warning to keep "hands off" Austria, the communique said:

"The cabinet discussed events in Austria. It was reported (informed) that a protest worded in the strongest terms had been made to Berlin.

"The prime minister and foreign secretary previously had made similar representations to Herr von Ribbentrop. It was felt that action of the German government would be bound to have the most disturbing effect upon Anglo-German relations and upon public confidence throughout Europe.

"His Majesty's government is keeping in close touch with the French government and giving continuous consideration to the situation."

It was reported in cabinet circles that the government even discussed the possibility of withdrawing the British ambassador, Sir Nevile Henderson, from Berlin and leaving only a charge d'affaires in the Berlin embassy as a protest against Hitler's coup.

In addition, International News Service learned the government is considering a joint Anglo-French declaration regarding the integrity of Czechoslovakia.

If Britain decided to withdraw its ambassador, it was learned, it will be in concert with France. Britain is not prepared to resort to such action alone.

DEADLINE NEAR FOR INCOME TAX

Office in Postoffice Crowded As Taxpayers Have 2 Days Left to File Returns.

With the deadline for filing income tax returns only two days away, long lines of people waited today in the upper corridors of the postoffice building while four employes in the office of the internal revenue department worked steadily over tax forms.

Tuesday midnight is the deadline under which income taxes may be paid without a penalty, and the annual last minute rush was on in full force today. Chairs had been placed in the corridor for persons waiting, but most of them preferred to hold their places in line.

Charles S. Mosey, in charge of the Mansfield office, said there was no way of comparing the number of persons filing this year with the number last year, but that there had been a steady stream of persons through the office during the past week.

He warned that all single persons earning more than $1,000 annually or married persons making more than $2,500 were required to file returns, regardless of the fact that exemptions will reduce their taxable income below those figures.

Monday the office will adhere to its regular schedule from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., but on Tuesday the closing time will be extended to 7:30 p. m. Persons making out their own tax reports must have them in the mail postmarked before midnight Tuesday.

Rites for Otto Krichbaum to Be Held Monday; Coroner Blames Heart Attack.

GALION—Funeral services for Otto Krichbaum, 55, of 128 South State road, will be held Monday afternoon. Burial will be made in Nevada, Ohio.

Mr. Krichbaum died Friday afternoon when he suffered a heart attack while driving the Thomas hardware "pick-up" truck. The accident occurred in front of 399 North Market street just north of the Payne avenue intersection.

Henry Knote following in a car saw the hardware truck sideswipe a tree and come to a stop. At the same time Mrs. J. L. Cook saw the accident and could not see a driver in the truck. Knote got out of his car and found Mr. Krichbaum unconscious. An ambulance was called and at the Good Samaritan hospital he was pronounced dead. Dr. O. R. Kackley, Crawford county coroner, stated that death was caused from a heart attack.

Didn't Feel Well.

It was stated that Mr. Krichbaum had earlier told a friend that he was not feeling well. At the time of the accident he was delivering a ladder to the Galion Metallic Vault company. The front tire of the truck was flat and other damage to the truck was small.

Mr. Krichbaum was born near Sycamore, west of Bucyrus, Aug. 9, 1882. He was married May 27, 1921, to Bessie Metcalf of Busyrus. Only his widow survives.

Mr. Krichbaum came to Galion from Bucyrus 13 years ago. When he came here he was first employed at W. C. Kanable's battery shop. For the past three years he had been employed at the Thomas hardware store. In Bucyrus he operated a battery shop for about a year, he was also employed in the T. & O. C. shops as a painter.

GALLANT OSA TO CARRY ON

Widow of Explorer to Return To Jungles for More Animal Pictures.

for four years. And always she was the only woman; her husband the only white man among 250 native Africans.

Her tasks were to oversee the housekeeping end of the safari; to cook and bake for herself and husband (waffles and muffins and pies), to do their mending; to protect his life with her gun while he was taking pictures of wild animals, and to provide the meat for the entire camp.

Always they carried a big supply of luxuries in the way of tinned food, canned vegetables and fruits, and for meat there was breast of guinea hen and partridge, filet of antelope steak, baked gazelle, and all kinds of fresh fish. Meat was merely a matter of going out and getting it.

Then there were her cosmetics, usually a year or two's supply; cleansing cream, foundation cream, rouge, fingernail polish, bath powder and colognes. Which were particularly appreciated at the end of the day when they may have tramped 15 or 20 miles under the equatorial sun and over volcanic rocks.

In later years Martin and Osa Johnson flew hundreds of thousands of miles in their own planes; they carried an expert pilot, although both of them could handle a ship very well. They had been capture by cannibals, been clawed by lions and leopards and knocked around by elephants — but it was a brief return to civilization last year that brought the tragedy which separated them for the first time.

On his first airplane ride in America the explorer was killed and his wife seriously injured.

Gallant is the word for Osa — someone has written of her, and truly it is the one all-encompassing word that describes her.

Martin had asked her once what she would do if he were to die first, and she said: "I'll carry on your work; the work we've spent our lives on." And so she is. Before she could walk without crutches she was on her way to Africa with more than 200 film cameramen, players, and mechanicians for one of the major film studios.

Everything went wrong. The white men weren't as self-reliant as her husband had been; there were 20 huge trucks to bog down in soft ground; there were as many as 2,000 natives at times to be fed and kept in order, and only she could speak their language; they had to carry a physician and nurses, and there was a lot of sickness, and as always, she was the only white woman.

But that's not the kind of work that Osa Johnson wants to do. She wants to carry on Martin's work of making animal pictures and lecturing with them, and that's what she will do in the future.

In June she goes back to Nairobi, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, and from there will start her safari as she and Martin started many times. In a year or two she will be back with another educational and adventure picture.

"So long as I live," she said with a smile which only partially concealed the shadows in her eyes, "I want to keep the name of Martin Johnson a familiar one to millions of school children; to keep the Martin Johnson pictures as popular as they were when he directed them."

You guessed that this was to be her memorial to her husband.

Film Covers 27 Years of Johnsons' Career.

A word and picture story of 27 years of exploration and movie-making in the South Seas and Africa was presented last night at Mansfield High school auditorium by Mrs. Osa Johnson.

Lecturing twice in Mansfield yesterday, Mrs. Johnson spoke to about 500 persons last night and to a larger crowd in the afternoon, when the audience was made up mostly of school children. Her talks and motion picture showings were under the auspices of the University club.

Seated in the dark beside the screen, Mrs. Johnson described through a loudspeaker the adventures of the Johnsons as they trekked through the jungles of the South Sea islands and traveled by motor and airplane through Africa to photograph the animal life of the most uncivilized areas of the globe.

The audience saw at the same time the narrow escapes from death of the adventuresome American couple and a picture record of the lives of native tribes and the animals that inhabit the most uncivilized sections of the earth.

Standing by with a gun, Mrs. Johnson often shot down charging lions and elephants only a few feet from the movie camera with which her husband got "close-up shots" of the angry beasts.

The movies, including chapters from all the full-length motion pictures taken by the Johnsons, portrayed the lives of the tiny Pygmy tribes deep in the Congo forests and the migrations of millions of animals across the East African plains.

The last trip the Johnsons made to Africa in 1935 was by air, and the final scenes of the movie showed photos taken from the air and some unusual "shots" of Mt. Kenya, one of the snow-capped peaks under the equator in East Africa.

political leader in that state (Illinois) that we could contact."

Asked if he wrote the letter, the governor said, "I wouldn't be surprised."

"And it was your desire that Mr. Bradley make a connection between those political connections and your business, wasn't it?" Harrison asked.

"Very possibly," answered the governor.

Under direct examination by Assistant County Prosecutor Neil McGill, Governor Davey was asked concerning Bradley's charges before the senate committee that utilities and motor companies were solicited for 1934 campaign contributions.

"Was there ever any talk about a 50-50 split of commissions on state business with you?" McGill asked.

"If he ever mentioned anything like that to me I'd have thrown him out on his neck," replied the governor.

Bradley had testified at a committee hearing that the two discussed such a proposition with a General Motors Truck Co. representative.

BAER MAKES AWFUL LOUT OF EXPERTS BY TAKING FARR.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—Two knockdowns he scored, one of them with a left hook. A left hook? It was almost as though Popeye, the seafarer, were to haul off without warning and sing alto. He won eight rounds clearly, vividly and sometimes magnificently and though he yielded at least three, this was done with becoming ill grace and only after robust, resolute opposition. His left eye was a large, repugnant bloat, incapable of all else save pain and acute distress. But he won.

Max Baer

And in winning, he made an awful lout out of everybody, including the fellow who first said that they never come back. I suspect now that the latter must have been talking about shirts from the laundry.

For Max Baer, the outcast, the Pariah, the unwanted and disdained, came back amazingly at Madison Square Garden last night to gain a unanimous 15 round decision over Tommy Farr, the British champion, and even make of Farr a mark and a patsy much beyond the comparatively insipid efforts of Champion Louis and ex-Champion Braddock in this connection. But we deal here not with Farr. In our set, three strikes are always out.

We deal very little, too, with the lobby gamblers, who made Farr 9-5 at ring time and went for what is known as a chunk. They're strictly unimportant and so is their chunk.

That Baer is never unimportant and cannot be. It may be that he never will be again, for this not only was the old Baer come back, the old winner over Schmeling by a knockout, but something of a new Baer, too.

HE ACTUALLY used a straight left with effect. Sometimes he even picked off punches with it and, in the second round, he hooked it first to the stomach and then to the jaw, dropping Farr for a flash knockdown. It was the first of two, the other coming in the third round from a right cross Farr taking a count of six. Asked later how, after nine years of left handed imbecility, he suddenly mastered this punch, the eccentric young man replied that he had started to stick it out in the first round and found that, when one did this, one hit somebody on the snout.

Perhaps he was clowning. By that time it was coming to him.

Eighteen thousand stood and cheered him for five minutes at the finish. They followed him up the aisle. They pushed him to the dressing room and pounded upon the door. But the real tribute was paid by the official finances.

These showed that 18,222 paid their way into the Garden for a gross of $76,412.22. They didn't go to see the actor.

PAIR TEAMS MONDAY

District Champions to Draw for State Tournament In Columbus.

COLUMBUS — (INS)— Drawings for the state high school basketball tournament to be held here next week-end will take place Monday morning, High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend announced today.

In an effort to avoid the possibility of two teams from the same district drawing into the same bracket, Commissioner Townsend said that four different brackets would be employed, A—B—C and D. There will be four teams in each bracket.

ELKS POINT FOR BLISS

Seek Revenge For One-Sided Whipping on Carnival Card Tuesday.

An opportunity to avenge one of the worst defeats ever suffered by a City Class A league club in competition with an outside foe will be offered the Elks Tuesday night at Mansfield high in one of the tilts on the circuit's basketball carnival.

The melee will throw the fast-stepping Elks against Bliss college of Columbus, one of the powers in the Capital City this season, in the second game on the program.

Walloped Dairys.

Bliss appeared on a benefit program at Senior high last year and walked off with an overwhelming victory over Isaly Dairy, City league entry last year.

Tuesday the Elks, with Adam Brandt and Jim Wallace, members of that Isaly club, leading the way, will be out to even things in no uncertain terms.

The Columbus aggregation, one of the present leaders in the AA Industrial league, will throw a veteran lineup against the Elks and the latter team will have to be at its best to turn the trick.

The Elkmen's big job will be to halt the sharpshooting Snyder, leading individual scorer in the AA Industrial loop. Two other members, who appeared here last winter, H. Harris and J. Harris, will also be back. These lads were the spearhead of the Bliss attack last season.

Tackle Coaches.

Westinghouse Electric and the Richland county coaches clash in the opener Tuesday at 7 p. m., with Bliss and the Elks meeting at 8 o'clock while the undefeated Yuncker Sports and Globe Clothiers play the finale at 9 o'clock.

Tygers Advance by Upsetting Pre-Tourney Favorite, Bellevue, 25 to 13.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

WHETHER the Mansfield high school cagers will return to Columbus next week as a participant in the state finals after a lapse of 11 years will be determined tonight.

Coach Russ Murphy's hoopsters return to Sandusky tonight to present half of the argument in the finals of the Class A district tournament.

Engage Old Rival.

The Tygers' foe tonight is Sandusky, and if they can get by this all-important game in the same slick fashion that they have toppled the other contenders, they will earn a place for themselves in the state finals.

Mansfield advanced to the finals last night by eliminating Bellevue, 25 to 13, in a bruising semi-final game that the officials were unable to control.

Sandusky reached the finals at the expense of Ashland with a close 32 to 29 victory that was also blemished by faulty officiating.

By virtue of their triumph over the last of the pre-tournament choices, the Tygers established themselves as favorites in tonight's setto.

However, Mansfield, one of the few "dark horses" ever to reach the finals in the district, has the Sandusky "jinx" to contend with tonight, and it is not certain that the Tygers will be able to overcome the hoodoo that has trailed the home town athletes these many years in the rivalry with the upstate school.

Mansfield has the ball club to beat the Blue Streaks. It has not performed at a pace more spectacular than during the regular season, but is merely keeping cool under fire.

Hand Out Bad Whipping.

Playing a slow, deliberate game, the Tygers handed Bellevue the worst whipping it suffered this season. The losers did not hold the lead in the exciting game once.

Setting up an impregnable defense, Mansfield limited the pre-tournament favorites to exactly four baskets.

Infuriated by their failure to break up the Mansfield defense, the Redmen resorted to rough tactics, but even then they failed to upset the Tygers, who met them at their own game.

The officiating in last night's games was probably the poorest ever witnessed in a district tournament. Jay Winters again did a pretty good job of holding up his end of the assignment, but his partner, A. N. Smith, was constantly on the receiving end of boos of the crowd of 2,500 that was partisan to Bellevue.

Spotty officiating probably had more to do with the defeat of the surprise Ashland club than anything else.

The A's outplayed the taller Blue Streaks virtually all the way.

While the A's put up a plucky fight, Sandusky will probably face more in the way of competition tonight than it did in any game in the tournament.

Defeat Tough Teams.

To reach their present position, the Tygers were forced to defeat two of the toughest teams in the district, and although Sandusky has a center who is only about two feet shorter than the Washington monument, Mansfield might take the hosts in their stride on the momentum they gained in the preliminary melees.

Touted as the strongest team in the tournament, Bellevue had a bad case of jitters last night, and the occasions that it was actually in the ball game were few.

The Redmen's inability to bust up the Mansfield defense merely added to their excited state.

They were baffled so completely that it is doubtful whether they could have hit the Richland Trust building at 10 paces with a slingshot last night.

Featuring the Mansfield play last night was Jack Lyons and Tommy Scott. The steadiness of Johnny Hallibrin was another factor in the victory.

Mansfield never trailed after Elmer Duals parted the strings from the corner on the opening tip-off. The Tygers gained a 6 to 1 lead in the first period, and did not permit Bellevue a basket until the second quarter.

Lead 8 to 5 at Half

The score at the half was 8 to 5, and the Murphymen lengthened their lead to 16 to 11 as play went into the final period.

Mansfield tallied nine points in the final chapter while allowing the overrated Redmen just two free throws.

Tonight's finals are scheduled at 8:30 p. m., and will be preceded by a preliminary game.

CARBETTA WINS TITLE AT GALION

Only one of the Mansfield boxers who participated in the N. C. C. A. tournament staged in Galion last night was able to tally a championship victory.

He was Paul Carbetta, youthful Friendly House simon-pure leather pusher, who decisioned Gib Mollenkopf of Marion in one of the finals last night.

Marvin Glover, Mansfield welterweight champion, dropped a close decision to Fred Kleinknecht of Galion in another final affair. The [illegible] while selecting the winner of the fight, but after considerable deliberation named the Galion youth to the tune of many "boos."

The other Mansfield boys to drop decisions were "Curley" Miller, who lost to Ernie McKinley of Ashland in the finals, and James Thomas who dropped a semi-final decision to Bob Shaw, of Galion.

Mike Pangallo of Galion decisioned James Slaughter of Bucyrus in another final affair. Bob Shaw of Galion won a decision over George Fleiner of Crestline.

Melvin McKinley of Marion was the winner over Paul Mollenkopf of Bucyrus.

Elimination bouts follow: Paul Mollenkopf of Bucyrus, technical knockout over Russ Mutchler of Bucyrus; Melvin McKinley of Ashland, decision ocver Bill Teynor of Ashland; Bob Miller of Mansfield, technical KO over Odis Scott; Ernest McKinley decision over Alex Zahary of Bucyrus; George Fleiner of Crestline, technical KO over Raymond Medrano

RANDOM SHOTS

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

BASKETBALL fans looking for a bargain should take advantage of the program the City Class A league will stage out at Mansfield high school Tuesday evening.

The league will offer three attractive games for the small price of 10 cents.

Heading the program is a game between the undefeated Yuncker Sports and Galion Globe Clothiers, a team the City league leaders found troublesome earlier this season.

Bliss college, which appeared on a similar program here a year ago, returns to meet the Elks, and the Westinghouse Electrics tackle the Richland county coaches in the other games.

The league can use those dimes, too. The circuit is in the "red," but the deficit can be erased if enough folk come out to see the attractive program. Here's hoping the high school athletic plant is packed to the rafters Tuesday night.

Stover Heads for South Thursday.

ANXIOUS to get his hands on a bat, Dewey Stover will leave from his home in Tiffin Thursday for Moultrie, Ga., where he will attempt to pilot a winner in the Georgia-Florida league.

If he had his choice, Stover would return to Mansfield. But as the Mansfield situation is very problematical, the popular Red Sox pilot of last year took the first job that was offered.

Dewey hasn't the slightest idea as to what kind of a ball club he will be able to develop this year. The only left-overs at Moultrie are a pitcher and an infielder, and the only new players that have been assigned to the club so far are Roy Lee and Fenton Benton, who wore Mansfield livery last summer.

The Boston club will send a batch of players to Moultrie, but Stover won't know who they are until he reaches that city.

Cunningham Entered In Mile, "600" In New York Tonight.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Can the world's greatest miler beat the nation's fastest sprinters at their own game? So many thousands are so eager to see this moot question settled that Madison Square Garden already has the S. R. O. sign out for the final big indoor meet of the season tonight.

The miler, of course, is Glenn Cunningham. Track experts, if not his opponents, are willing to concede the Columbian mile, but they are very dubious that he can take the track one hour later and hand out a beating in the Casey 600.

Ex-Champ Drubs Farr in Comeback

Max Baer Wins Unanimous Decision Before Crowd of 18,222 in Garden.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Max Baer, a devoted father and a rejuvenated fighting man, today awarded all credit for his smashing 15-round victory over rugged Tommy Farr to his two-months old son, Maxmillian Adelbert, jr.

"The kid did it," Maxie said. "I couldn't let him grow up thinking his old man was a yellow bum."

Avenges Defeat.

The former heavyweight champion from California avenged his 12-round defeat at the hands of Farr last spring with a unanimous 15-round decision over the Welshman 18,222 paid spectators in Madison Square Garden last night.

Max knocked Tommy down three times—in the second, third and 14th rounds—and won 13 rounds on Referee Artie Donovan's score card.

The inspired Baer made the fans completely forget his loss of the title to Jimmy Braddock and his knockout by Joe Louis. They were yelling for him to knock out the Tonypandy terror, and afterward in his dressing room Max said he would have knocked him out "if my timing hadn't been way off."

It was a savage fight from beginning to end. From the fifth round on Baer couldn't see out of his left eye. It was completely closed and a long gash was still dripping blood when Max stepped under the shower after the fight. Farr also suffered an eye cut, and his mouth was gashed so badly that a scheduled radio broadcast to England had to be cancelled.

Before Farr would sign for this fight, Promoter Mike Jacobs had to promise the winner a title bout with Champion Joe Louis next fall. But today there was talk of matching Baer with Gunnar Barlund, the Finn who made Maxie's brother, Buddy, quit in seven rounds last week. Another, and apparently logical report, has former Champion Jimmy Braddock staging a comeback and meeting Baer in a big outdoor bout this summer.

Same Old Baer.

Baer, last night, was the same sneering, domineering fighter who knocked out Max Schmeling in 1933 and won the crown from ponderous Primo Carnera in 1934. He took all of Farr's powerful lifts, solved his peculair style, and crashed his own potent right home time and again to win the decision.

WIN GAMES ON Y BILL

First All-Star Teams Take Two of Three Tilts Staged By Church Clubs.

Basketballers picked on the first teams of the all-star church league selections demonstrated their superiority at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

The first teams came through with two of the victories on the three-card program.

Scores 39-21 Win.

The Class A first team walloped the second team, 39 to 21, and the first team in the C league defeated the second team 28 to 24. In the other tilt, the second team of the B league edged out the first team, 28 to 27.

Not once did the first Class A team have any trouble. The club broke loose in the opening quarter to take a lead it held without difficulty.

The first team led, 10 to 4, in the initial stanza, 21 to 5 at halftime, and 26 to 15, going into the final frame. Botzer was high for the winners with 12 points, while Lerner paced the losers with six.

The Class C first team had to unleash a second half rally to down the second club. The teams were tied at 11-all at halftime. Ammeter led the first team with 11 points, and Sickmiller topped the second club with nine.

Win on Rally.

The second team of the B league came to the front with a thrilling victory over the first team. A last-period rally gave the second club the decision. The winners trailed, 11 to 5, in the opening period, 19 to 7 at the half, and 25 to 15 as they went into the last chapter.

And then it broke loose and outscored the first team, 13 to 3, to take the tilt. Dixon led the winners with eight points.

Indians Meet A's, Pelicans

Vitt Splits Squad for Two Games Today.

NEW ORLEANS—(U.P.)—Manager Oscar Vitt today split his Cleveland Indians into two groups and sent them into exhibition contests with the Philadelphia Athletics and the New Orleans Pelicans.

The Tribe's veterans were to meet Philadelphia at Lake Charles, La., while the rookies opposed the Pelicans here.

As the Indians moved into Lake Charles Vitt said he would go through with an experiment he announced soon after the club came to camp and would have Earl Averill batting fifth and Hal Trosky hitting sixth. Trosky was the club's "clean-up" man a year ago. Vitt planned to pitch Benny Galehouse and Joe Heving against the Athletics today, with Willis Hudlin and Bill Zuber working against Connie Mack's charges tomorrow.

Ken Keltner, the rookie infielder who suffered an arm injury when hit by a pitched ball Thursday, was to make the trip with the "regulars" to Lake Charles. Keltner rested yesterday, but the injury did not appear as serious as first believed.

CHAPTER XVI

Murray turned, saw Mercedes upon the ground, sprang toward Vasquez, unarmed as he was. Calmly Vasquez struck him across the head with the muzzle of his heavy automatic. Murray slumped to the ground, but instantly two men appeared who, at Vasquez's command, picked him up and carried him swiftly away. Those who watched dared not fire for fear of hitting Murray.

But this was the end. With bullets pouring in upon them from three sides, with half of their forces dead or disabled, Red Vasquez's forces were licked. His whistle shrilled, and carrying their dead and wounded as best they could, the gang retreated to where the trucks were waiting—empty. Into them they tumbled. The trucks roared away.

Don Vicente and Charlie Kilbourne carried Mercedes into the house.

Her injury was not serious. A bullet had barely touched her head. In fact, probably had not touched it, but had come so close that the concussion had knocked her unconscious. She soon revived.

"Where's Murray?" was her first question.

"They got him, daughter," Don Vicente told her. "But don't worry, we'll get him back. And Vasquez along with him."

"When you get Vasquez," said the girl, "will you give him to me, daddy?"

Don Vicente grinned.

"Both Vasquez and Murray," said he.

"Thanks, daddy," said the girl. "You are wonderfully indulgent. But let me have that Vasquez for five minutes. Oh, the miserable, low—down....You say it, daddy. Or get Mr. Kilbourne to do it. He's good at that."

Don Ponce sympathized. He explained that he had warned Murray not to expose himself needlessly, but that Murray had had some sort of idea.

"And Jose?" asked Don Vicente.

Nobody had seen Jose since the fighting ended. Nor was he to be found when searchers carried in two dead and three wounded of Don Vicente's forces. All were thus accounted for except Jose.

But Jose was neither dead, injured nor captive.

Jose had business of his own to attend to. Elsewhere.

As for Murray—there was nothing to be done this night. He was gone with Red Vasquez and his defeated gang. Perhaps to his death.

But both his father and Don Vicente thought not. If Vasquez had wanted to kill him, he could—and would—have done so when he had him helpless at pistol point.

"Vasquez has other plans," said Don Vicente. "But tomorrow—tomorrow will be another day."

The people of Rancho La Luz were bestirring at dawn, but scarcely were they up when a horseman came tearing along the road leading to the hacienda.

Don Vicente, observing him from a window, shouted "Jose! It is Jose!" and went to the steps where he was joined by Charlie Kilbourne, Don Ponce Robles and Mercedes, just as Jose slithered to a halt and threw himself from his mount. All knew that his haste indicated important news.

"I have found him," said Jose, after a moment of getting his breath.

"Murray?" questioned Don Vicente.

"Don Murray, yes," replied Jose, tossing the reins to a muchacho who had come up to take his horse. "Yes, I know where Don Murray, ees. I have try to do something by myself, but eet ees not possible. So I come for help."

"Where is he, Jose?" demanded Murray's father. "He is not injured?"

"No, Don Carlos," said Jose, giving Charlie Kilbourne his Spanish name. "No, Don Murray he ees all okie, except that he ees a prisoner. But we weel soon feex that, I betcha."

"Sit down and tell us about it, Jose," commanded Don Vicente. "And smoke up if you want to." Don Vicente and the others sat down, whereupon Jose followed suit.

"Eet ees thees way, Don Vicente," said Jose, then. "W'en I see that thees Red Vasquez has taken Don Murray preesoner and that thee fight shee ees all feeneesh, I say to myself, Jose, the good Don Shane O'Hara of Rancho Soledad, my master, has sent you weeth Don Murray to take thee care of him. Now w'at thee hell have you done, Jose? You have let thees damn peeg of a Vasquez—I beg your pardon, senorita, I—"

"Go on, Jose," said Mercedes, "you're doing fine."

"Well....thees peeg of a Vasquez to take Don Murray away. Now w'at, I ask myself, weel Don Shane O'Hara theenk of that? An' I tell myself, Jose, Don Shane weel theenk just w'at you, Jose, would theenk. W'eech ees, that you, Jose, are one hell of a fellow, an' I weel now throw you out on your ears, huh?"

"So I tell myself, Jose, theees weel not do. Because eef Don Shane he throw you out on your ears, then you weel no longer be foreman of Don Shane's rancho, wheech weel be just too bad for you, Jose. Besides wheech, Don Murray, and Don Carlos and Don Vicente weel turn their heads away w'en they meet me, and speet in the road. Wheech would be worse than being not foreman of Rancho Soledad. So I say, no, Jose, theese theengs cannot be. Get beezy, Jose; get beezy like hellangone. So I get beezy. You know w'at I do?"

He looked about again at smiling faces.

"I tell you w'at I do. I run away from thee light and I put my handkerchief over my face like thee raiders, and I shout 'We are leeked good and plentee,' and I run like hell to one of thee trucks and crawl into it an' cover up weeth a blanket.

"Prettee soon lots other fellers they came running, hollering 'We are licked' and crawl into thee trucks too. And then Red Vasquez comes weeth Don Murray and gets eento thee truck that I am een. Then Vasquez geeves the word and we go away from there. And w'en we start, Vasquez ties Don Murray's hands weeth a rope and shoves heem over in thee corner—thee corner where I am. So I w'eesper to Don Murray who I am and that I weel now untie thee rope and then we well leek the stuffeeng out of Red Vasquez and hees gang. But, que verguenza! W'at a shame! Before I could untie thee rope, Vasquez come and seets down between us...and me, I have to be prettee damn careful, I betcha, so he don't see I am Jose Verdugo. But she ees dark and I make like I am verree seek from a bullet so Vasquez he tells me oh shut up and queet groaneeng, so I shut up verree tight and weesh Red Vasquez was in thee other truck. Yes.

"Well, we go back almost to Tijuana. Then we take the Tecate road and go maybe two miles and come to a old 'dobe house'...I theenk you know eet, Don Vicente. Eeet was house weech used to belong to Senor Osuna."

Don Vicente nodded, and Jose continued his story.

"At thees house they all get out. Me too, Jose. But I deed not stop to make thee conversaeuon weeth thees birds. No, I went and heed myself w'ere I could see w'at she was goeeng on. An' so I see that they take Don Murray eento thee house an' lock heem up and put two men to guard heem. And I see Red Vasquez and two-three other fellers get eento a car and go away."

"So I theenk maybe I can help Don Murray to make thee escape, but w'en I look and see ten-twelve men with guns seeting around, I theenk, no Jose eef you try to be a bloody hero you weel get keeled muy pronto and Don Murray weel steel be here and nobody weel know w'ere he ees. So I deed not try to be a heero, but went away from there, and caught one horse at a place on the Tijana road, and came to tell you w'at I know."

"Good work, Jose," said Don Vicente. Charles Kilbourne held out his hand to man who had risked swift death to aid his son, and Mercedes gave Jose a look which told him plainly what she thought of him. Even Don Ponce Robles nodded at Jose and murmured something about being a brave man.

"What do you think we should do now, then?" Don Vicente asked.

"Me, I theenk we should get together a gang and go take Don Murray away from those Red Vasquez fellers."

"That's my idea also," said Charlie Kilbourne. "Let's go."

"I do not theenk they weel stay there very long," offered Jose. "I theenk they intend to take Don Murray somewhere else. Sometheeng Vasquez say makes me theenk that."

"Coffee's ready," said Mercedes. "Let's drink it an' get going."

"Not you, my girl," said Don Vicente.

Mercedes appeared about to make a reply. Then smiled, was silent, and entered the house. The men arose to follow her. As it happened, Jose and Don Ponce fell into step together.

"W'at you theenk?" Jose asked Don Ponce.

Don Ponce shrugged.

"We'd better take things somewhat slowly," he said. "Maybe—maybe they'll shoot Don Murray if we attack them. If they think they can't lick us this time."

"That's w'at I theenk, too," said Jose. "Maybe they shoot Don Murray. Me, I don't want them to shoot Don Murray. So I theenk—I theenk maybe I know one way wheech she weel not let them shoot heem, huh?"

THEATER

THE majority of critics undoubtedly will agree with the Motion Pictures Academy awards this year which named Spencer Tracy and Luise Rainer for turning in the best individual performances by actor and actress, and the palm to "Life of Emile Zola" for being the best, all-round picture. The little Rainer, thought to be a dud after her first American appearance in a picture with William Powell, has won what no other actress or actor ever has in ten years—the Academy award for two consecutive years. The thing that stamps her a truly great actress is that the two roles which won the awards were so widely different. As Anna Held in "Great Ziegfeld," she had all the vivacity, the glamour of the great French idol, and in "Good Earth" she was the tragically stoic O-Lan, Chinese wife discarded for a younger woman. Tracy, in all his career, has never given a poor or even mediocre performance.

"Snow White."

Mansfielders are about to see the picture, which is like the sunrise—all the world is waiting for it. Walt Disney's first full length cartoon has been written and talked about for three years, ever since he announced that he would make a feature picture of the beloved Grimm fairy tale. And so for the first time, movie audiences will see a full length motion picture in which there are no living models and no actors. The characters will be themselves, Snow White the little princess; the Wicked Queen, her stepmother; Prince Charming, a huntsman, and seven cunning little fellas who were conceived in the fancy of a great story teller many years ago and came to life under the touch of a whimsical cartoonist. The dwarfs are named according to their chief characteristics—Doc, Happy, Sleepy, Grumpy, Sneezy, Bashful and Dopey. The picture is in colors and human voices are used for the characters. "Snow White" opens at the Ohio with a midnight matinee tonight.

"First Hundred Years."

The title of the Robert Montgomery-Virginia Bruce picture, which will be shown at the Madison the first of the week, doesn't refer to a prolonged war, that is not an official war. It merely means that the first 100 years of married life are the hardest. After that it's practically clear sailing. This hilarious marital comedy deals with a young man who had the colossal nerve to ask a pretty girl to give up a $30,000 a year job to share his meager salary and love-in-a-cottage menu. Warren William, Binnie Barnes and Alan Dinehart are others in this sham battle which left all of the participants slightly coo-coo after several years of billing. It opens at the Madison Sunday.

"Mr. Dodds."

Kenny Baker, whose voice and personality are familiar to the dial twisters who stay home Sunday nights to hear Jack Benny's program, is starred in "Mr. Dodds Takes the Air," which the Majestic presents for four days starting Sunday. Adopted from the Clarence Buddington Kelland novel "The Great Crooner," it is the story of a small town singer whose voice is heard by a talent scout at a strawberry festival. But even after making a fortune with his voice, he still tinkers with inventions because he likes to. A couple of designing women are foiled by his sweetheart, played by Jane Wyman, Alice Brady and Gertrude Michael are the other women. Jack Holt in "Making the Headlines," a mystery story, rounds out the bill.

"Submarine D-1."

Wayne Morris, Warner Brothers "find" of the year, who has reached stardom in three pictures, is the attraction at the Ritz Sunday and Monday. After his success in "Kid Galahad," he was rushed into the lead in "Submarine D-L," which is one of the better pictures of the year. No sooner was that completed than he was featured in "The Kid Comes Back." In his second picture he is associated with such players as Pat O'Brien, George Brent, Frank McHugh and Doris Weston. It is a stirring melodrama of men who man Uncle Sam's U-Boats, and the atmosphere is said to be authentic as well as thrilling. In spite of a noteworthy cast, it is the gallant boat itself that is the "hero" of the story, emerging, like any well regulated hero, victorious after overcoming breath-taking hazards under the sea.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

ATLANTIC CITY—(AP)—When an oxyacetylene flame cuts steel, some of the spurts of molten fire that throw out showers of sparks, travel at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

This was discovered through motion pictures taken by H. R. Bullock of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and reported to the American Welding society here.

The 100-mile speeds were seen by the camera along the outer edges of the oxygen flame as waves and drops of fire in the form of turbulences. These turbulences are of the same form as those seen along the edges of a stream of water from a hose. The oxygen flame is perfectly smooth when it leaves the nozzle of the oxyacetylene torch. As the oxygen cuts into the steel, particles of melted metal spray out along its edges, causing the turbulence.

LOWER PRICES RULE LIST IN QUIET TRADING

Boardroom Sentiment Depressed by European War Clouds at Opening.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Lower prices predominated in today's early stock market proceedings.

At a relatively quiet opening small declines were registered for American Can, American Telephone, Standard Oil of N. J., Montgomery Ward, General Electric, du Pont, Douglas Aircraft and Consolidated Edison.

Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse and N. Y. Central were up a shade. General Motors and Chrysler were unchanged.

With war clouds gathering over Europe as a result of the latest Austro-German developments, boardroom sentiment was depressed before the start of trading.

On the side of merchandising stocks, however, were reports from most branches of retail distribution indicating that, while public spending is currently running under last year, it is showing much less contraction than activities in productive industries.

GRAFTON MURDER TRIAL RECESSED

Prison Farm Trusty's Threat Story Draws Denial.

ELYRIA—(U.P.)—The first degree murder trial of Edward Hensley, 22, Grafton prison farm trusty, charged with slaying Ramona Louise Hornbeck, 19, of Grafton, was in recess until Monday when the state will continue presentation of evidence.

Hensley's testimony that his confession was obtained under threats of the third degree were denied yesterday from the witness stand by J. M. Rule, prison farm guard.

Mrs. Louise Soule, of Youngstown identified the prisoner as the man who jumped into her car as she drove from a Youngstown parking lot in 1935. He later fled.

HITLER ENTERS AUSTRIA; ARMY RULES COUNTRY

Advance Guard of Troops Pushes on to Italian Border As Nazis Inaugurate Rule.

to inform each other before making any important moves.

Bombers Fly Over Vienna.

In Vienna, German bombers flew overhead. Citizens, face upwards, shouted stormy greetings as the machines circled slowly over the capital.

German officials, too, were here. Austria over night became German and Nazi.

Hitler's close friend, 45-year-old, bespectacled sandy-haired Arthur Seysz-Inquart, was the new chancellor, as well as war minister and minister of interior with both the nation's army and police under his control.

German officials here included the German police and secret service heads, Rudolph Hess, Heinrich Himmler and Kurt Daleugl.

Everywhere jubilant Nazis were taking over control of provincial and municipal governments.

The government of Chancellor Schuschnigg and his fight for Austrian independence and against Naziism were gone, yielding to German pressure.

A regiment of German troops passed through Braunau, Hitler's birthplace. They stopped and paid touching, solemn obeisance at Hitler's house, their shrine.

The troops moved toward a Vienna bedecked with Nazi swastikas, and as they passed through small towns on the way they were greeted with cheers.

There was no indication anybody regretted their entrance. Seysz-Inquart had asked for them.

The villages dripped with Swastika flags.

Austrian Nazis Return.

And as the German troops came, another army too was marching into Austria — the thousands of Austrian legion men who fled the nation in 1934 after the failure of the Nazi revolt in which Chancellor Dolfuss was killed.

Meetings started early in the provincial capitals to reorganize provincial governments in 100 per cent Nazi fashion, beginning with provincial governors and working down.

In Syria province, with its capital of Graz the center of Nazi strength in forcing the bloodless revolution, this business was completed quickly. Hans Helfrich was named governor and a storm troop battalion leader became police chief, as Graz buildings were draped with Nazi emblems. Even Catholic cloisters displayed Swastika flags.

There were few police in the streets. Troops remained in barracks.

Factories and stores were ordered closed to allow for celebration, but the city had celebrated all night.

Austrian troops stationed for border duty joined the German soldiers and they marched toward Innsbruck.

Beat Recalcitrants.

The Innsbruck burgomaster, Moerr, fled the country early today and Nazi occupation of the city was peaceful. Austrian Nazi troopers took over all Vienna factories this morning. They carried cat-o-nine tails with which they beat former socialist workers who showed recalcitrance or lack of enthusiasm.

The outgoing Vienna police chief told the Associated Press 1,100 persons were arrested during the night, mostly Schuschnigg Sturmkorps and Fatherland Front officials who had sought restraint while the government was being changed over to Naziism.

Press Censorship Ordered.

Nazi leader Josef Tavs announced that newspapers would be brought immediately into line with Nazi ideas. It was anticipated two prominent Vienna papers controlled by Jews would be banned.

An issue of the old conservative Catholic Reichspost was confiscated.

Hitler girl organizations appeared suddenly in uniforms.

S. S. men paraded, goosestepped perfectly. They apparently had been practicing behind barns for months.

Police sang the Horst Wessel song in the streets and cafes, drinking toasts in beer to the health of Hitler, "Our Fuehrer," though a few hours before they had arrested hundreds for doing the same thing.

Vienna radio stations early this morning started broadcasting with "heil Hitler" greetings.

Fresh evidence of German mastery of Austria was seen in swastika flags flying over Vienna's royal palace where the Emperor Franz Joseph lived and where Austrian generals once studied war plans against German armies.

Order Swastika Flown.

Today was a holiday with schools closed. Nazi units rushed from street to street and house to house to enforce order and to display flags—both the Nazi Swastika and the Austrian colors.

They met some passive resistance. Many householders seemed reluctant to bow to the decree calling for display of flags. Those who had none were told by the Nazi troopers to go and buy them.

Hitler youth paraded in their official uniforms.

Patrols of German gymnast societies marched through streets of the capital with rifles.

People in Braunau and Leonding, childhood haunts of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, thrilled by the report that Hitler would pay them a visit. Hitler was born at Braunau in 1889.

Long Live German Austria, Hitler Cries.

BERLIN—(AP)—Before Fuehrer Hitler left Munich today for a triumphant return to Austria, the land of his birth he issued a proclamation saying that "soldiers of the German defense force were marching over all the frontiers of German Austria" to carry on its Nazification.

He flew from Berlin to Munich early this morning, leaving Propaganda Minister Goebbels to read the broadcast proclamation and leaving Field Marshal Goering as acting head of the German government during his absence.

"I have now decided to extend the aid of the reich to the millions of Germans in Austria," Hitler's proclamation said.

"Since morning soldiers of the German defense force have been marching over all the frontiers of German Austria."

"I myself as fuehrer and chancellor of the German people shall be happy again to be able to enter as a German and a free citizen this land which is my own land.

"The world, however, shall convince itself that the German people in Austria experiences in these days, hours of deepest joy and emotion.

"The Austrian people see in the brethren who have hurried to their aid, saviors from dire distress.

"Long live the National Socialist German reich.

Long live National Socialist Austria."

"Motorized units, infantry division and S. S. formations on ground, as well as the German air force in the blue skies, called by the new Nationalist government in Vienna—shall be the guarantor, that now at last, within the shortest time, the possibility will be given to the Austrian people by means of a real plebescite to shape their own future destiny.

"Behind these units, however, stand the will and determination of the entire German nation."

Foreign Journalists Detained, Released.

VIENNA — (INS) — Alfred Tyrnauer, International News Service correspondent in Vienna, was released today after brief detention with other foreign journalists by the Nazi police.

The group was held in the central telegraph offices here for a brief time immediately after a rigorous censorship was clamped down. Accompanied by his wife, Tyrnauer had gone to the telegraph office to file a bulletin when the order was issued. The foreign reporters were released after representations by J. H. Morgan, secretary of the United States legation.

Blum Strives to Form New Cabinet.

PARIS — (INS) — Premier-Designate Leon Blum, striving to give France a national union government with plenary powers to deal with the European crisis, plunged into a series of conferences with party leaders today as he fought to whip together a cabinet.

Earlier, by a vote of 6,565 to 1,644, the socialist national council agreed to support Blum in his efforts. Blum wants to head a government representing all French parties, from extreme rightists to communists, armed with plenary powers to meet by decree any emergency arising from the German coup in Austria.

Blum won over the national council when he appeared before an extraordinary meeting and pleaded for support.

Among the leaders with whom he conferred were former Premier Eduard Daladier, Paul Renaud, rightist leader, and Vincent Auriol, one of the leaders of the socialist group.

After issuing a strong appeal to the masses and reviewing his previous efforts to form a government on "popular front" lines, Blum declared:

"Amid these efforts exterior events upset all calculations. The moment has come to launch an appeal to all France."

U. S. Watches Crisis, Keeps 'Hands Off.'

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A flag bearing the symbol of Adolph Hitler—the Swastika—was raised over the Austrian legation here today.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— State department officials watched developments in Europe today and reiterated this country's determination to maintain a "hands off" policy in the domestic affairs of all foreign governments.

General reaction among officials and congressmen to Germany's invasion of Austria coincided with that expressed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull —that "naturally" this country had not expressed its views on the situation to the Berlin government and had no intention of doing so. Hull repeated the United States' often repeated policy of non-intervention in the domestic affairs of other nations.

A wider view of American reaction was expected next Monday, however, when the house considers the administration's billion dollar naval authorization bill. Shortly after reports of Adolf Hitler's political coup were received here the house voted unanimously to begin consideration of the naval expansion bill immediately.

CONFER TODAY ON CITY RELIEF

Officials Seek Solution to Problem as County Gets Ready to Withdraw.

lief are being received and that the peak of the load apparently was reached last month when expenditures approached $24,000.

In a move to keep relief expenditures to a minimum, Nist said no applicant who drives a car will receive any help. A notice on relief orders issued in the future will read "You can't drive a car on relief."

Since they shifted relief administration to the city, Madison township and Shelby last Thursday, county commissioners have indicated it is up to those districts to find a way to meet the relief costs.

Neither the city nor township had made a move today, however, toward providing funds to pay relief bills after March 15, and each was expected to meet possibly early next week to take action on a financing program.

The county will continue to be the distributor for relief funds from the state, which will total about $5,500 a month during the year under the present state setup. The county will pay all bills incurred prior to Tuesday.

Relief Director Nist announced today that a carload of potatoes will be distributed Monday morning to the 1,400 relief clients in Mansfield and Madison township on presentation of their green commodity cards.

The allocations will be on the basis of a peck of potatoes to single persons, half bushel to families of from two to six members, and a bushel to families of seven or more.

Linz, Innsbruck and other frontier towns.

In every town and hamlet jubilant Nazis waving the swastika flags which until 24 hours ago were banned in Austria, greeted the armed symbols of Hitler might dispatched into this ancient country in militant disregard of heated protests from Great Britain and France.

The invasion of Austria, threatened by the fuehrer if Kurt Schuschnigg refused to resign as chancellor and turn over his government to an 80 per cent Nazi regime, became a reality.

Members of the Austrian legion, exiled from this country after the assassination of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss in a Nazi uprising in 1934, accompanied the reich troops in smart marching order.

For every German soldier who marched into Austria at least one or more panic-stricken refugee in fear of his life fled for safety across the borders.

In the Jewish sections of Vienna, where rioting and window-breaking occurred, there was serious apprehension over future developments, particularly when it was learned Himmler had arrived here and that creation of an Austrian gestapo could be expected.

So far as could be learned, Schuschnigg himself is still in Vienna but his departure is expected shortly.

Meanwhile, the Nazi-sympathizing residents of this capital who welcomed the German invasion were handicapped in their celebrations by a lack of Nazi flags and bunting.

Official orders were issued that Nazi and Austrian flags be displayed on all the streets. But delay in receiving needed shipments of emblems from across the border left the city lacking in the carnival trappings that Hitler had ordained.

End Fight Or Resign, Roosevelt Tells TVA Directors

Not That It Matters

—By JANE WILLIAMS

DOROTHY THOMPSON, nationally known columnist and internationally distinguished political writer, predicts that a revolt among parents over modern methods of the school system will eventually bring a return to "sanity" in teaching and to the essentials of education.

In a recent column she pointed hopefully to a revolt among a small group of teachers at the convention of the American Association of School Administration, who found the courage to speak harshly of the present system of American education.

Speaking of the revolt of parents, Miss Thompson said: "I hear it on all sides. Parents complain . . . that their children cannot read, write a legible hand, or spell. . . . In the course of two years I have had opportunity to interview a number of young women for secretarial and stenographic positions. All of them have high school education and most of them a year or so of college. The percentage of near-illiteracy among them is extremely high. And yet none were stupid by nature."

LACK of vocabulary is another liability among young men and women of today, according to Dr. Johnson O'Connor, at the Stevens Institute of Technology, who has made a special study of this particular phase of the results of modern education. He picked 150 words which are so common that they appear once in every 100,000 words of printed matter in newspapers and magazines.

He tested thousands of high school students on these words and found that the average high school student knew the meaning of only 94 of them, while the average college graduate knew only 123. Seventy per cent of all the cases didn't know the definition of such words as "indemnify," "furtively," "dispense," "docile," "contrite" and "subversive."

Much of the fault for our hopelessly impractical school system, lies with the state boards who tell communities what subjects they may and may not study in their schools. But there will be glory for the teachers and administrators who join parents in staging the revolt.

OPEN LETTER to LeRoy Coffey, chief of police, Shelby. Dear LeRoy: I did NOT enjoy your postcard; and I did not measure Mae West's diamonds by the "carrots" as our first edition would have you believe. Someone (I suspect he was a graduate of our modern school system) hung the "carrots" on Mae's hands after the story left my desk. It was changed in the final edition—but not before I had burst a blood vessel, knowing how many out-of-town readers get the first edition.

P. S.—And LeRoy, will you please send the next criticism of my spelling (sometime you'll be right about it and it WILL be my fault) in a sealed envelope so it can't be read en route?

DIDN'T get in on any of the broadcasts from Los Angeles about the floods, but knowing the California spirit, I'd guess that the flood was referred to as "excessive moisture." One bit of distress that failed to break my heart was the newspaper story about John Barrymore being marooned for three days in his hilltop home with his wife, Elaine. Now they'll probably have another separation—after three days of each other's company.

CAN'T answer all the questions I've had about the Lady of the Undulating Hips. I don't know what kind of cosmetics she uses; I didn't ask her about Frank Wallace because I already knew the answer to that as should everyone who reads the newspapers; I didn't ask her age because most women lie about 'em anyway; she lives on the entire sixth floor of the Ravenswood apartments, one of the swankiest and largest in southern California, which she owns (the apartments, not the state); can't answer about her income, except that she makes $450,000 a year, on one picture, according to the income tax collector, and I know she is under contract for an additional $10,000 a week while on tour. Then she has extensive real estate holdings.

Can't answer C. C., Hammond avenue, about that quote from the Adam and Eve broadcast. But he should know that every thing she said had a double meaning, an inoffensive one and a vulgar one, and it's positively amazing how many millions of us snapped up the latter. We never miss a suggestion or insinuation of vulgarity or obscenity, do we? That's because, as a people, we know too many stories about farmers' daughters.

I know just how he felt... "Mayerling," the French film depicting the tragic love story of the mad Archduke Rudolph of Austria and the 17-year-old Countess Vetsera, whom he killed and then shot himself, makes Charles Boyer tops among all male actors, for this devotee.

After the government had constructed an expensive bridle path at Key West, it was learned that there were only two horses in the town. But they must have felt like Mrs. Astor's plush team. . . . If the proposed United States navy keeps on growing by leaps and bounds, pretty soon we'll be a great navy with a little country, instead of vicey-versey, so to speak. . . . Mr. Roosevelt announces that he won't keep a penny of what he makes on the side with his writing. Then he'll know how the rest of us feel—who can't keep a cent.

Map Trials of 24 Held In Ohio Alcohol Ring

U. S. OFFICERS ROUND UP LAST OF DEFENDANTS

Faces Charges of Operating Huge Distilleries Raided In Three Ohio Cities.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Federal agents today completed roundup of 24 men who Monday go on trial in federal district court here on charges of conspiring in Ohio's largest post-prohibition illicit alcohol ring.

Assistant District Attorney Ray O'Donnell estimated that the trial before Judge Mell G. Underwood would extend over two weeks.

Several of the defendants, indicted on four counts by a federal grand jury last June, have been serving jail sentences for other offenses and others have been free on bail.

Operated Stills, Charge.

The government will seek to prove that the defendants operated a series of stills near Cleveland, Painesville and Steubenville, O., and Pittsburgh and Creighton, Pa., between October, 1936, and last June.

Alcohol agents said that the illicit "cracking" plants, valued at $100,000, had a daily capacity of 4,000 gallons, transforming denatured alcohol into beverage alcohol.

Each defendant pleaded not guilty when arraigned. O'Donnell said that conviction on the conspiracy charge carried a maximum federal sentence of eight years.

The defendants and their residences are:

Patrick Traficani, Thomas Centanni, James Epifano, James Tripodi, James Trombetti, Peter M. Justko, Adam Martello, David Smith, John De Cara and John Bcarcus, all of Steubenville.

August Mormino, Harry Dangler, Morris Phillips, Fred Bickhart, Vincent Reo, Hurley Jones, Andrew M. Wiggins, James Laro, George Fadel and Verne Holt, all of Cleveland; Joseph C. Ross, Sam Brushome, Peter Albenze and Joe Tominello, all of Pittsburgh.

MOONEY VICTOR IN NEW FIGHT

California Assembly Votes Him Pardon But Senate Remains as Barrier.

(By Associated Press)

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Tom Mooney won the first step of his fight for freedom from San Quentin prison early today when the California assembly adopted a resolution intended to grant him a legislative pardon.

Approval of the unique measure climaxed two tempestuous days in which Mooney and police Capt. Charles Goff of San Francisco personally told the assembly their divergent stories of Mooney's conviction for the 1916 preparedness day bombing that killed 10 and injured 40 persons here.

Adopted by a bare majority, 41 to 29, the resolution still must be approved by the senate, which turned down a similar measure last year.

Doubts have been expressed as to the legislature's authority to pardon Mooney, who is serving a life term.

Captain Goff, who directed the gathering of evidence against Mooney and Warren K. Billings, also serving a life sentence for the bombing, appeared before the assembly and denied Mooney's charges he was framed.

2 BROTHERS ADMIT THEFTS AS POLICE PROBE PURSE STEALING

Two brothers, one 13 and the other 11, were held in the detention home today while police sought solution to numerous purse robberies that have been committed here in the past few weeks.

The youthful pair were arrested by Patrolman John Steele last night less than two hours after Mrs. Carl Turner, R. D. 3, Mansfield, reported the theft of her purse from a North Main street physician's office.

Mrs. Turner told police that she had been cleaning the office when the two boys walked in and asked for some work. She said she told them they would have to see the physician later. After they had left, she said her purse which had been on a chair, was missing.

Apprehended by Steele, the youths admitted the theft and took the officer to the building where the purse was found hidden in the hallway.

Police said the boys also had in their possesion several articles of merchandise which they admitted taking from a drug store.

The boys, police said, admitted they had used the same ruse in the theft of a purse from Mrs. Rhea Doolittle, 100 North Walnut street, two weeks ago.

It was an embarrassing moment for Joe G. Diemer, gas station operator, Wednesday night when his friends saw him pushing his car to a filling station outside the city. Diemer was en route to the scene of an airplane crash west of the city in a machine he uses to deliver gas to stranded motorists. He wouldn't have minded the empty gas tank so much, but his name was painted all over the car. "It would have to be that particular car," he complained.

In all, 1,471 pictures were submitted in the contest, and Ports won a third prize and $5.

Four Mansfield high school girls had a practical lesson in geography this week, which takes in a fair portion of the United States. On June 16 last year the girls, members of the high school band and drum corps were on a boat between Cleveland and Detroit, and after their lunch wrote their names and address on a paper napkin and sealed it in an emptied bottle of olives. This week each girl received a letter from Paul Welch, 19, of Los Angeles, who was swimming in the waters off Miami, Fla., when he found the bottle with the names. The bottle was floating in the reeds off the Florida coast, and probably had drifted out of Lake Erie to the coast and down the Atlantic coast. The girls are Ruth Blaney, Florence Snyder, Bertha Croak and Nora Casey.

TWO COURSES LEFT TO BOARD BY PRESIDENT

Congressmen Believe Remarks Concerning Resignations Directed to Morgan.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, saying the public interest demanded an end to internal dissension, put two courses before TVA's embattled directors today: United support of the agency's objectives or resignation.

In outspoken language, he told them they should consider problems and policies impersonally and objectively and, once a majority decision was reached, act harmoniously.

"Any of you who cannot do that owe it to the public of the United States not to remain on the board," he said.

Action Uncertain.

(Some congressmen have contended the power to remove the TVA directors is vested solely in congress. The president himself said recently that he was uncertain whether he had this authority. Most observers believed, however, that a specific request from Mr. Roosevelt for the resignation of any director would not go unheeded.)

Although his words were directed to all three members of the Tennessee Valley authority—Chairman A. E. Morgan, H. A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal—some observers drew the inference they were aimed particularly at the chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt had tried fruitlessly in a dramatic, six-hour session with the directors yesterday to bring out all the facts behind the charges and counter-charges hurled by the chairman and his fellow board members—fruitlessly, because Chairman Morgan declined to support his charges.

The chairman, holding out for an "impartial, comprehensive and complete" congressional investigation, repeatedly told Mr. Roosevelt he was "an observer and not a participant in this alleged process of fact-finding."

He noted in a statement put into the record that he has "repeatedly but unsuccessfully" sought Mr. Roosevelt's cooperation in correcting "grave conditions" with TVA.

To give Chairman Morgan time to reconsider his position and present his side of the case, the president finally adjourned the hearing until next Friday. He asked the three either to appear in person or file further evidence at that time.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—No doubt about it, here's the style center of the world—all styles.

A block and a half off the boulevard there opened the other evening a new night club, Cuban in theme and cuisine, rather steep as to tariff, excellent as to music—La Conga.

Hollywood, meaning the movie crowd, invariably turns out for a new night club. If it's still turning out, some 60 days later the club's a hit. But Hollywood turns itself out, sartorially speaking as it pleases. The feminine contingent of our party pointed this out with no sympathy at all for Hollywood's way of working and living, which of course dictates the dress of the lady style-setters.

"It's just funny, that's all," one of them said. "Most places evening dress is evening dress but here—well, look around.

The look-around was fruitful. The feminine contingent agreed that Alice Faye, over there with Tony Martin, was "smart" in that suit affair and hat with long shawl-like veil. Also that Gracie Allen, suited and hatted was "tres chic and cute" dancing with George Burns.

"What's wrong with that?" argued counsel for the defense. "Those people just got through airing tonight—when would they get a chance to slip into something loose if they wanted to?"

"Nothing's wrong, only look around some more. Just what is evening dress in this town?"

The ensuing survey revealed the Brewster twins in long flowing white; one girl in a colorful turban; another unknown in bright tweeds ("Well, she's been to Santa Anita, came right on here"); a little brunette in a street suit rhumbaing nicely, another beauty in filmy white carrying a big cherry-pink feather fan, a bejeweled and glittering Sophie Tucker, Mrs. Buck Jones and daughter, Maxine, in "longs"; another tweedy horse devotee, diamonded dowagers. Claire Dodd in long black with eye-catching tall black hat fanned with colored ribbons, and so on.

Interest in assorted costumes took another form when Marlene Dietrich swept in, making her customary entrance. She was done up in black with a high hat, strangely like Claire Dodd's, only prickly with feathers instead of ribboned. The feminine contingent gaped with delightful anticipation, what would Dietrich do when she saw Dodd?

But that question was never resolved because Dietrich did not see Dodd. There was a strong suspicion that Dietrich sees only what she chooses. The most beautifully languorous mask in town cracked into a smile on at least three occasions, otherwise was serenely woven. It posed for all the photographers, departed almost immediately with its two male care-takers.

Somehow, La Conga was not the same thereafter. The music got hotter, the crowd got gayer, a Ritz or two couldn't repress a "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen" and Scribbler Gene Toyne table-visited in his customary unquiet manner. But what is life after all when Dietrich has gone from it?

Churches Raise Funds So Paralyzed Student Will Get His 'Chance'

4 Congregations to Take Up Collections Tomorrow to Finance Operation by Noted Spine Specialist; Surgeon Examines Youth Who Has Been Lying Helpless In Hospital for 4 Months.

Tomorrow morning four Lutheran churches in Mansfield and several churches throughout Ohio will take a special contribution from their congregations for the fund which will give Michael Ondov his "50-50 chance" for a new lease on life.

And that chance will be given to the 24-year-old divinity school student who has been paralyzed since an auto accident Nov. 5, right in Mansfield at General hospital where he has made many friends and where he has been surrounded by the best of medical and nursing care.

Dr. H. E. LeFever, head of staff of White Cross hospital at Columbus and one of the outstanding spine specialists in the country, will come to Mansfield to perform the operation which will give young Ondov his pass key to health and happiness, or destroy his hope forever.

Delicate Operation.

The specialist was in Mansfield this week to see Ondov and after careful examination decided that an operation, one of the most delicate, might remove the pressure or obstruction which is holding the spine in a deadening grip.

Because of his interest in the case and because of the generosity of the hospital staff, it is almost certain that Ondov's "chance" will be financially possible, according to Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, who is treasurer of the fund for the Wittenberg graduate.

Ondov's parents are unable to help since they have already spent the $2,000 which they raised by mortgaging their home at the time of the accident.

The Lutheran churches of Mansfield which will take up special contributions tomorrow morning are First church, St. Paul, St. Matthew's and St. Mark's.

Individuals who wish to contribute may do so by calling Rev. Gilbert or the pastors of any of the other churches.

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Saturday, March 12. "Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?" Read Luke 7:19-23.

These words are full of pathos, yet how true they are to life. Surely one of the reasons, perhaps the most potent of all the reasons, why the men of his own day missed Jesus, was their inability to believe that what they had hoped for had come to pass in the person of hte man before them.

How difficult it is, when something we have looked forward to for years finally happens, to realize that this is our dream and plan actually come true. The important happenings of life, which are the stuff of our hopes and fears, all have in the immediate event this strange quality of falling short of what we had expected. The trouble is we cannot grasp them at the moment; hence that shadow of disappointment and perplexity which falls upon the fact. We have all known that baffling shadow, and felt its chill.

Our religion is no exception to this rule. It must have taken very discerning and confident natures to believe that Jesus was the Christ. It takes equally simple and trustful believers to discern the divine event when it happens today.

Prayer: O God, who has given us the treasurers of memory and hope, help us so to use these treasurers that they may lighten and not darken the truth and the worth of each passing hour; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Sunday, March 13. "I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill." Read Matthew 5:17-20.

Every so often someone comes forward with a proposal to drop the Old Testament from the Christian Bible—on the ground that it is an imperfectly Christian, if not an un-Christian, work. This is not a new idea. It first appeared in the second century, as Marcion's defence of the theory that Christianity was an absolutely new thing in the world, without any historical precursor or cause. The Church decided that Marcion was a heretic, condemned his ideas, and kept the Old Testament.

This controversy, old and forever new, concerns us, since it encourages us to believe that our own personal Christianity should be the full-grown expression of everything in us which is right and good. You do not have to deny your own best past to become a Christian, rather you go on with it; go farther than you ever could otherwise have gone. This is the way Christianity approached all that was good in the ancient civilizations of Greece and Rome. It is the way it now approaches the religions of the non-Christian world.

Prayer: Almighty God, who hast never left the world without witness to thyself, bring us each to that fulness of time, when thou shalt be most perfectly revealed through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

REA EXTENSION HINGES ON LOAN

Huron Co-op Will Need More Funds to Build Lines into County, Bureau Says.

With three rural power lines being extended into Richland county from the southwest, the construction of rural electric projects in the northern part of the county awaits a $100,000 loan from the federal government, Harry Miller, county farm bureau field man, had indicated today.

If the county gets REA power along the northern border, it will come from Norwalk where the Huron County Electric co-operative yesterday closed a contract with the city light plant for power.

Miller said, however, that the $100,000 already obtained by the Huron county co-operative would provide for lines only in that county, and that double that amount must be borrowed if Richland county farmers are to benefit by the construction of the lines.

The Norwalk municipal plant will furnish power for the Huron Co-op at the rate of approximately 1½ cents a kilowatt. Construction of the Huron electric lines which eventually will total 236 miles, is expected to begin in six weeks. The work will be done by the Firelands Electric Co-Operative Inc.

Construction has been under way for several weeks on lines of the Morrow County Rural Electrification co-operative which will reach into Perry township along three roads. Lines of the Morrow county co-op will be energized early this spring by the Marion Reserve Power company, Marion.

About 30 homes in Perry township will be served by the project, Miller said.

Gasoline a Farm Crop.

A [illegible] We are not going to run out of [illegible] our engines. When natural supplies fail we can make what we need.

The [illegible] keep it that we [illegible] a couple of [illegible]. When that time comes, we can [illegible] and corn and [illegible]. And if our [illegible] we can [illegible] or if we are interested [illegible] we can [illegible] of the farm.

[illegible] a statement by Dr. Bruce K. Brown, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, explaining the present cause of [illegible].

[illegible] of the [illegible] of the [illegible] of the [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible].

Henry Ford and the Du Ponts also have been talking in this way of "farm crops," meaning the application of chemistry to industrial use, by conversion of natural or agricultural materials. It is one of the things that make the future of the human race look more secure and pleasant, provided we can learn to get along without war. And chemistry should make war less necessary or profitable because nations without large mineral resources may grow prosperous for users on the land.

The Americas Get Together.

PAN-AMERICAN DAY on April 14 may not mean as much to North Americans as it might, but there are signs that it will mean more in future years. This country has begun to take notice of its sister republics to the south. By years of indifference and neglect we have nearly lost to European governments the friendship, trade opportunities and cultural values which might be ours.

Lately we have changed from the big-brother to the good-neighbor attitude. Our travelers are [illegible] with increasing enthusiasm to the unfamiliar lands and peoples of South America. While trade [illegible] other parts of the world, our commercial interests are suddenly more aware of possible customers in this hemisphere.

In spite of their long distrust of so powerful a neighbor, the South Americans have responded with amazing friendliness to these first overtures. Many of their business men have been coming recently to get acquainted with our. Families long accustomed to sending their children to Europe for education now send them here.

All these things are mere beginnings. Hard as it may be for us to understand, some of our Latin-American neighbors have regarded this country as a money grabber and new comer to the Old World [illegible] in art, education, fashion and pleasure. Our [illegible] has created a needless handicap for us to overcome. Cooperation and community of interests now work in our favor.

Co-operating Dentists.

IT IS ESTIMATED that the average dentist in or near New York City is regularly idle for two hours and ten minutes of his daily work period. At the same time there are thousands of New Yorkers who need dental care. Dentists complain that [illegible] and [illegible] in the time [illegible].

The [illegible] Dental Society of the State of New York proposes to find out whether anything can be done about this. It is proposed that a dental committee send 2,000 local dentists a letter asking if they would be willing to accept additional patients at a reduced fee per hour. Two hundred of the dentists responding would give full time to the project, at a reduced weekly salary. It is [illegible] that the dentists [illegible]. They oppose any "socialistic part of government control."

If it is possible for dentists to [illegible] a cheap plan, a definite program of [illegible] and the needs, there will [illegible] persons [illegible] their own [illegible]. They themselves are hard hit by [illegible]. It is hopeful sign that such a group [illegible] to co-operate and to give [illegible] to clear and good [illegible] to work [illegible]. Here are individual initiative and co-operation organized for the general good without compulsion.

Who Exists for Whom?

PREMIER KONOYE of Japan [illegible] parliament that "the people exist for the state." It is a natural view for a state that is [illegible] the fascist group which now dominates the Japanese government, though it is doubtful today whether this group represents the attitude of the Japanese people.

In [illegible] it is clear that the opposite view prevails. Here we hold, as we have held from the beginning, that the state exists for the people.

But what is the "state"? One of the old French kings said, "I am the state." Hitler's governmental power came from him and fell not down through the people. With us, all the people are the state. Power proceed from us and is exercised by the citizens we have chosen to represent us. People and government are one.

This is the case in democracy. And this, we are convinced, is not only the freest and fairest but the most stable of all forms of government, in spite of the present resort of so many distressed nation to the ancient tyranny of dictatorships.

It's hard to tell whether that big naval program is armament or poker.

Europe is dying of a brain ailment called "ideology."

Keeping Step
